

Text4baby Tuesday

A weekly update from the National Healthy Mothers, Healthy Babies Coalition

March 13, 2012

Text4baby is at the SXSW Interactive Conference this week! Jennifer Benz hosted a text4baby panel yesterday in partnership with colleagues from Johnson & Johnson, CTIA – The Wireless Foundation, and Voxiva. Many thanks to Benz Communications for their work getting us included in this important convening of great technology minds. Remember that text4baby has digital tools available, like our enrollment button that allows moms to sign up for text4baby directly from your website. Download and use the enrollment button today.

Partner Spotlight

New media partner Discovery Fit & Health has put text4baby front and center in their Baby Week activities this week! Check out this page where you'll see the TV PSAs and text4baby web button and learn more about Baby Week. Discovery Fit & Health is also airing the text4baby PSAs on television for Baby Week, so be sure to tune in. This year's theme is Multiple Madness so you'll see touching stories about parenting multiples and more. Thanks Discovery for joining us in connecting your viewers to text4baby!

Text4baby in the Media

The Centers for Disease Control and Promotion (CDC) has distributed a text4baby video e-card featuring an adorable baby for sharing with pregnant women and new moms. Very cool! Thanks CDC for your creativity in promoting text4baby.

mHealth Highlight

New study: Socio-Economic Impact of mHealth

According to a recent study, mHealth technology presents great promise for countries around the world. As cited in the article, benefits of using mHealth technology include improving reach and quality of care while reducing overall healthcare operating costs. The article states that through the use of mHealth technology, maternal and perinatal mortality can be reduced by 30 percent. The study looked at the impact of mHealth initiatives in twelve countries. The countries are grouped based on specific healthcare challenges they face, but one thing remains constant – mHealth can help reduce burden on healthcare systems and lead to better health outcomes.
